The Diox collection is noble wood subordinated to the hand of the craftsman. The image of the collection is inspired by craftsmanship, the smell of wood shavings and the precise movement of skilled carpenter's hands on the product. Diox establishes a direct link between the chemistry of creating a product and its final perception. Bold wooden elements in solid ash wood. Tactilely pleasing edges rich in natural texture. Elegant finishes in natural light and deep black tones. A holistic image that both calls for continuity and returns us to the natural sources of creative power. It continues to weave the fabric of time, enriching the world with a new realised product of the object world. Diox reinterprets the joinery of the past into a contemporary cultural element, preserving its naturalness and simplicity.
