Armchair TUTTU Denim

- Designed in collaboration with the Tokonikomu workshop.
- The bright image of the chair is suitable for an informal, extravagant setting.
- A hand-stitched, removable cover made from reclaimed denim contributes to a more sustainable future.
- Designed and manufactured in Ukraine, with love!

The TUTTU Denim chair was developed in collaboration with the reconstructed denim clothing brand TOKONIKOMU. Taking into account pressing environmental issues, we have tried to make our humble contribution to a sustainable and ecological future of design trends, in which we can give new life to products and materials, neutralizing their impact on the environment.

TUTTU Denim has a marginal character, with a touch of rebellion that challenges fast fashion. This type broadcasts a dialogue about modern concepts of Sustainability and Slow Fashion. It was created for the modern generation of post-pop people who follow the principles of conscious consumption: they ignore fast fashion and non-eco-friendly materials, and prefer durable, including vintage, things outside of seasonal trends, often made by local artisan workshops. Additionally, by using recycled clothing items for the outer cover of a patchwork chair, it creates a simple yet striking visual effect that is essential for an informal, extravagant setting.
